NEWPORT DAILY NEWS.

MONDAY, July 29, 1867.

THE TENNESSEE RIOTS.

The turbulent condition of the political elements in Tennessee has repeatedly resulted in public disturbances. The antagonism aroused between the loyal and the rebel portions of the community, has not so far subsided as to enable them to settle the political differences without coming to blows. It is a natural consequence of the condition of things that has existed so long, and the wonder is, not that there are riots and bloodshed, but that there are not more.

When the character of the population is considered, and the proper allowances made for the difference between a New England town or city and a community made up as the South western settlements are, it would be a rare phenomenon should the terrible strife begotten by the same principles out of which the rebellion grew, be adjusted without violence. The questions at issue there are not new, nor do they relate solely to matters that have sprung up since the beginning of the rebellion. On the other hand the rebellion originated in them. It is the aristocracy; and the popular rights and opportunity to acquire the ascendancy by the disfranchisement of the rebels who constitute the party formerly in power, are not willing to let it pass beyond their reach. It is an old fight, older than American politics,—one that has caused the blood to flow on many a battle-field. It was the dying struggle of American aristocracy in its contests with democracy that made the rebellion, and it will be matter of gratulation if the readjustment of State politics can be effected with small riots and little bloodshed. The wise legislation of Congress has prevented this in the greater number of the States and perhaps it would be well to include Tennessee in a military district with the same purpose.

We have no sympathy with political rioting nor with the Mackgnardism which so often attends our political campaigns, nor with the rebellion out of which the present disturbed condition of politics arose. Yet we wish to place the blame of these disturbances where it belongs; and to have it understood that it belongs, not to the State administration nor the general Government but is a remnant of the madness which arrayed the States of the South in arms against the Government.

That two such men as Emerson Etheridge and Horace Maynard should have a personal encounter is, perhaps the worst feature of this contest. They ought to have led the people toward a quiet solution of their difficulties; and, while there is no justification of such a transaction, there is the apology that when Etheridge met Maynard's advances in the insolent spirit of a border-ruffian, the state of society in that region would not permit the latter to remain quiet under the insult;—an apology which itself shows the need of reconstruction of that society.

Jon Stuart Mill, a radical, and Earl Gray a Conservative, in England, David Dudley Field, a radical and Senator Buckalew, a Conservative, in this country, have been considering the subject of representation of minorities. Mr. Field's plan is to let each elector vote for one representation to be selected from any part of a State, and to declare a certain number of voters to be necessary to an election. While the plan of the other gentlemen is to give to each elector in the State a number of votes equal to the number of representatives to be chosen and to allow him to cast his votes all for one or for any number of men not exceeding the number of representatives to be elected.

Much can be said for and against these propositions.

In their favor it is said that minorities ought to be represented in proportion to their numbers, and that it will secure able representatives, and tend to prevent fraud in elections. These ends are certainly very desirable. The subject was brought to the attention of the Senate the other day and is already before the Constitutional convention of New York, where it will probably be hereafter fully discussed.

All accounts agree that the colored troops upon the Plains have set an example of discipline and courage, such as calls for praise. The Leavenworth Times says:—"While scores of the white soldiers have ignominiously deserted their officers in the field, and stolen away with horses and arms, the colored boys remained at their posts, braving hardship, danger and disease with fortitude and confidence. Examples are not wanted to prove the superiority of the colored boys as Indian fighters. One instance is related of absolute cowardice exhibited by some white regulars, who were only saved by the dashing intrepidity of some "brunettes" who went to their rescue. It is by no means certain that the country will not find it profitable to reduce the number of white regiments, and raise more black cavalrymen."

In the British House of Commons on the 10 inst. July there was an interesting debate on a bill for the reorganization of the peerage. The bill is only permissive in its character, and authorizes counties and districts to form school boards and levy taxes for the purpose of supplanting existing schools. The Tories adopted the small-factory style of popular instruction, but objected to the bill, which they thought would deprive the schools of Christian character, and prepare the way for the introduction of another American institution. So they preferred for the present, that the poor people grow up in ignorance, and rejected the bill.

A man owns a tract of land four and a half miles from Maysville, Ky., five hundred to eight hundred feet above the level of the Ohio river, containing five thousand to six thousand trees of the best looked varieties. Recently he advertised the crops for sale in the Cincinnati Gazette, and a few days since he disposed of it "as it hangs" to a Cincinnati house, for the handsome sum of fourteen thousand dollars. This is an average of about [illegible] for each tree.

A REMARKABLE BOOK.—The London Athenæum remarks that the learned world of Wurtemburg is represented at the Paris exhibition by a book which is not only a rarity, but which exists only in this one copy, the work of a diligent and clever young scholar, Dr. Enling, librarian at the University of Tubingen. It is a book in folio, called Golasta, and containing the ritual, baptismal songs and dirges of the Mandaens. According to the descriptive catalogue, it is the first original Mandaen text which has been published. As no moveable types of this language existed till now, the editor was obliged to autograph the whole work. The Mandaens, also called Sabians or disciples of St. John, form a sect which exist only in the small number of about 500 men, at the Lower Euphrates and Tigris. The Mandaen language is fast dying out, and understood, perhaps, only by the high priest of the sect and by a Sabian scholar.

The Sandwich Islands are supposed to be in the way to be absorbed by this absorbing country, Government has made a treaty with their government, which secures the highest commercial privileges for our traders in the Pacific, and this [illegible] leads to annexation. As the group must become the property of this country, or of France or England, it is well to prepare to take it. It is very painful, no doubt, this absorbing business, but we must continue to pursue it.

The Islanders are said to be dying out rapidly, killed by the comforts of civilization, and Americans are the "sick man's" heirs. Who knows but that we shall have the Philippines before the century shall have completed its hundredth year? Such an acquisition would not be a stranger proceeding than some things we have done.

The following are the facts, as contained in the official report, concerning the shooting of Captain Speake of the British army, now under investigation at St. Louis by direction of the British minister. Captain Speake was passenger on the steamer Octavia, bound up the Missouri River. When in the Indian country the soldiers on board received orders to keep strict watch for Indians, who were constantly prowling around the steamer. While Captain Speake was passing along the guards at night, a new recruit who was on duty mistook him for an Indian and shot him. His body and effects were properly cared for. The soldier has been arrested and a trial ordered that a full official investigation may take place.

Mr. French, proprietor of French's Mills, about eight miles south of Schenectady, has in his possession a copper kettle, formerly the property of Gen. Burgoyne, the famous Hessian commander, and which was taken at Ticonderoga. The kettle weighs 1500 pounds, is of pure copper, over one-eight of an inch thick, ten feet in diameter, five or six feet deep, and must hold not less than ten hogsheads. It is peculiarly made of strips of copper running perpendicular and being artistically rivetted together, so as to leave the inner surface perfectly smooth, while the rivets project on the outside about three-eights of an inch. Mr. French has been offered large sums of money for it, but has refused to part with it.

The "Maximilian Avengers" have given up their purpose of invading, seizing and governing Mexico as a punishment of the Liberals who executed the Austrian Prince. Neither the French nor the Austrian Government has come forward with funds for their use—although it was given out that these Powers were ready to furnish them millions as soon as their scheme was under way.

New York lemonade is described as a delectable "compound of cotton, molasses, drippings and bad iced or dewered lemons," and is dealt out by the enterprising retailers of boys and girls at the rate of one, two and three cents per glass.

The comic paper of Vienna has published a cartoon, in which Napoleon is represented in a troubled sleep. By his bedside stands the ghost of Maximilian, in the act of reciting some reproachful verses, which are printed under the cut.

A small party of ladies and gentlemen recently hoisted on a mountain near Paterson, N. J., lost their way and wandered about for hours in the pitchy darkness. At one time a flash of lightning revealed to them their situation, about two feet from the edge of a stone quarry 100 feet deep, into which, in another second, the whole four would have been precipitated.

News Miscellany.

Certain parties in Canada, who are supposed to be posted, state that the scheme for the abduction of President Lincoln was started in the South as early as 1863, and that Col. Percy Wyndham, who commanded a regiment in and about Washington, had at one time agreed to deliver up the President and his Cabinet at Richmond, and would probably have done so if he had not been suddenly removed.

Cows or fat cattle, no dog will disturb them. As soon as the dogs approach the sheep, they run to the cattle, who drive off the dogs. They intend to manufacture fine sheetings.

Rev. Stephen H. Tyng, Jr., of New York, has had proceedings instituted against him by the Rev. Dr. Stubbs of Christ Church for breach of church law, in having preached in a Methodist pulpit. The case, if brought to trial, will decide the question whether an Episcopal clergyman can preach in churches of other denominations.

Late advices from Tallahassee represent the Florida Union Convention as in complete success. All the State white men of all sections between the delegates from Eastern and Middle Florida, but these were all quietly arranged. The platform fully endorses Congress and the resolutions thank General Pope for his just and fearless administration.

An order has just been issued from the War Department providing that all troops on military posts supplied with proper ordnance and ammunition, a morning and evening gun will in time of peace be fired daily at reveille and retreat. It is stipulated that for each purpose six portable guns and infantry blank cartridges or other proper ammunition shall be used.

CABINET ORGANS.—The splendid warerooms of Mason & Hamlin, 596 Broadway, are among the most frequented of the musical establishments of the city, and are full of all varieties of the Cabinet Organs. One needs to pay a personal visit in order to obtain even a moderate conception of the different styles and sizes offered to the public. Both in their internal construction and in the beauty of external workmanship, the Organs are confessedly unequaled by those manufactured anywhere else. The large sizes are specially adapted to the use of churches where a regular organist cannot be procured, or where a full or half organist is required to perform the duties of a very small salary. Price lists and descriptive circulars will be sent free on application to Mason & Hamlin, 596 Broadway, New York.

The plan of the Washington Library Company of Fairhaven is to offer to the public a free library in a valuable institution by selling tickets in shares of one dollar, for which a certificate is given with an engraving fully worth the money paid. As a still further inducement to have the share taken up rapidly, every stockholder is promised a present of one valuable in addition to this stock certificate and picture. The funds thus secured by the sales of stock are deposited with Messrs. George A. Cooke & Co., Bankers, No. 48 South Third Street, Philadelphia, to be by them applied to the object in view. A charitable public institution thus secures the benefit, and not a private individual. Read advertisement.

EXCURSION AROUND BEAVER TAIL.—The fine steamer Bay Queen, Capt. Allen, made an excursion around Beaver Tail Saturday afternoon, leaving Providence at her usual hour and touching at Rocky Point.

Notwithstanding the threatening appearance of the weather quite a large company embarked for the excursion. The waters of the bay were smooth as a mill pond until the boat neared Dutch Island, when a long, rolling swell was noticeable, which gradually increased until abreast of Beaver Tail Light, when the Queen commenced a series of antics which were a convincing demonstration that the domains of old Neptune had been reached.

A few were sea sick as usual on such occasions though to a large majority of the party the trip was an exceeding pleasant one. The Queen proved herself to be a most superior sea boat, as she has on previous occasions, while the polite attentions of Capt. Allen and Mr. Hallet, the clerk, enhanced the pleasures of the trip.

For a brief experience of "A life on the Ocean Wave" commend us to a trip around Beaver Tail, and in the Bay Queen, under the charge of those gentlemanly officers.

PICNIC.—The Sabbath School of the Thomas Street Methodist Episcopal Church are anticipating a pleasant time, Wednesday, when they are to have a picnic at Southwick's Grove. It is intended for a social affair, without parade, and at no great expense; and will be generally participated in by the members of the School and the congregation.

BEAT THIS!—His Honor Mayor Parker of this city planted some corn (Darling's early Sugar,) Thursday, the 11th inst. On the 16th, it measured one inch, today, (eighteen days) measures sixteen and a half inches in height.

Two schooners went ashore on Block Island, last night, one loaded with corn and flour and the other in ballast. The latter bilged.

THE NEWPORT WEEKLY JOURNAL
WILL BE PUBLISHED ON SATURDAY, Aug. 3, 1867,
And thenceforth every Saturday at
No. 13 Church Street, Newport, R. I.

—o—

In making this announcement the publishers desire to say that they purpose to issue what shall be in all respects

A First Class Family Newspaper,

Worthy of a place in every intelligent household. By process of the most classification and condensation it will present a digest of all the news of the day, and will be so far complete in itself that the persons reading it, though having no other, will not be ignorant of important current events in any department. To this end it will contain, in addition to what may be obtained from Exchanges,

Foreign and Domestic Correspondence,

Written expressly for its columns, including letters from the principal places of interest both at home and abroad. Each number will also have, in brief, an

Agricultural Department,

Which the Editor will endeavor to make of the highest value to Farmers, Florists, and Gardeners. As this will be prepared with much care, it is hoped to make it an invaluable organ to such as are interested in the cultivation of the soil. In the discussion of

National Affairs,

The JOURNAL will not be under the control of any party or clique, but will advocate those broad principles of equal rights and impartial justice upon which our national superstructure was originally established. It will not allow to be SECTIONAL in anything but conservatism in all, and will earnestly seek to promote the unity and prosperity of our common country. It is proposed, in short, to make it a complete

Weekly Compendium,

And to accomplish this, no pains or labor will be spared. The services of some of our best writers, not unknown to fame, have been already secured, and others will be employed from time to time.

THE WEEKLY JOURNAL will be published at the exceedingly low price of $1.50 a year, if paid in advance, as I will be the cheapest newspaper in Rhode Island, if not in New England. A sufficient number of subscribers has already been obtained to ensure its success, and efforts will be made to greatly increase the circulation both in the city and surrounding towns.

Advertisers

Will find the JOURNAL a favorable medium of communication with the public and their favors are solicited. Special arrangements will be made with those who occupy space in the Daily News. For further information as to terms, &c., apply at the office of publication.

R. H. EDDY.

Testimonials.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners, with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents.

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents.

"Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me THIRTEEN applications, of which patents have been granted, and that is one of perfection. Such uniform success proves both great talent and ability on his part. I feel no reservation in advising inventors to apply to him to procure their patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. It consists of the perfect control and [illegible] over the fire, and the [illegible] which [illegible] and [illegible] Stove, and we [illegible] with a [illegible] to be [illegible] the [illegible] and [illegible] underneath.
